A MESSAGE FROM
MISSISSIPPI ATTORNEY GENERAL

Lynn Fitch

A Message from Mississippi Attorney General Lynn Fitch

Each year, we mark National Police Week to honor and recognize the incredible men and women who protect our communities every day. This week, I was proud to uphold this tradition by hosting the 15th Annual Fallen Officers Memorial Candlelight Vigil with the Mississippi Association of Chiefs of Police and the Mississippi Sheriffs' Association.

This vigil serves as a powerful reminder of the lives of the fallen; the men and women who spent their days in service to their friends, neighbors, and even strangers, always with a sense of purpose, duty, and honor. This year, three fallen officers were added to the Fallen Officers Memorial Wall in Jackson to pay tribute to their service to our State. These officers were more than public servants, they were parents, siblings, and friends. Their sacrifices will not be forgotten, and my office will always support their loved ones and stand beside those who wear the badge- not just this week, but every day.

reimbursements

“For years, Mississippi’s independent pharmacies have been forced to take artificially low reimbursements because the PBMs have used their influence and leverage to effectively force non-negotiable contracts on them,” Fitch said in a statement. “These small business owners are already operating on razor-thin profit margins.”

“This is wrong. And it is against Mississippi law,” Fitch said. “Mississippi is fighting back and we achieved an important victory.”
